Floe Gets Smaller; Justice Still Aboard

Today big chunks of ice fell away from "Station Charley," a floating ice island in the Arctic Ocean and the Air Force stepped up plans to remove the men manning the scientific outpost.

Staff Sgt. John E. Justice, rear 220 E. Main St., is one of the 20 men still left on the ice floe, 450 miles north of Point Barrow, Alaska, and 600 miles from the North Pole.

One source reported today that, barring another bad break, the withdrawal of men and equipment from Charley is expected to be completed by Tuesday night.

It is believed that there are 17 military men and three scientists on the ice floe. The number of men on the floe has fluctuated since removal operations started last Thursday. The Air Force is believed to have removed three men, but four others were flown in to aid in removal of scientific equipment, and two photographers are said to be on the ice island.

The floe was reduced to a fifth its original size when two huge chunks cracked off the ice pack Sunday night.

It had originally been planned to keep the men on the island until all scientific equipment had been removed. But officials at Ladd Air Force Base here said a flight to the station today would pick up four men.

Air Force officers would not comment but it was believed concern for the safety of the men on the floe is rising.

The latest ice disintegration tore off about 200 feet of runway, but the Air Force said the loss was not expected to affect aircraft landings or takeoffs. Another 100 feet of area also dropped off one side of the ice pack Sunday night. A 3,700-foot chunk broke off Saturday night.

The floe, originally two miles wide and four miles long, has crumbled to an area one mile wide and one mile and a fourth long.

Three of the four men to be evacuated by the first flight were identified as S-Sgt. Thomas A. Boger, Greensboro, N. C.; Airman 1-C Hilton B. Carter, Ft. Smith, Ark., and Airman 2-C Franklin D. Yates, Ypsilanti Mich.

The auto was driven by her husband, Daniel Scanlon, 60. He was treated at the hospital for chest injuries, lacerations near the left

Young Couple Taking Stroll Sees Fast Flyer Jump Rails

WELLINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Marion Tudor went for a walk with her girl friend Sunday night and wound up on a date with disaster.

The 20-year-old shipping clerk and Nancy Bingham 17-year-old New London high school student, left Marion's home here at about 7:40 p. m. and strolled toward the Wheeling Avenue grade crossing of the New York Central Railroad's main line, less than a block away.

As the couple reached the crossing, Marion glanced down the tracks and saw the NYC St.

Louis - to - Cleveland Southwest Limited.

"I knew something was wrong," Marion said later. "Those trains usually go through here pretty fast—I suppose 40 to 45 mph—but this one was coming a heck of a lot faster than that." He continued:

"Two Nickel Plate tracks cross the NYC line down there by the station (about two blocks away in the direction of the oncoming passenger train) and that's always been a rough crossing."

"I knew she wasn't going to make it. When the diesel (three-unit engine of the 10-car train) hit the crossing, it rolled off the tracks on the left side and tore into the power line beside the tracks. It was all sparks and fire.

"The engine skidded along on its side for an awfully long ways and I saw the rest of the cars pile up. They caught fire from the power line and started burning."

"I yelled for Nancy to go call ambulances and I ran up to the engine."

"I climbed up on the top side and pulled the engineer (H. W. Kirstein, 63, of Cleveland) out of the window."

"He kept yelling 'My fireman's still in there—get him out.' I tried, but he was buried under all the dirt and everything and I couldn't find him." At this point Tudor said the engineer told him that the locomotive's brakes and speedometer were not working.

"As soon as I got the engineer out I ran down to where the cars were," Tudor said. "Everyone was hollering and screaming and pounding on the doors because they couldn't get out, and the cars were on fire."

"The conductor handed me a sledge-hammer and I knocked the door in. There were about 45 or 50 people in there. Most of them were okay, except a soldier with a broken leg, but everyone was hollering and screaming."

"Mothers couldn't find their kids or their suitcases. But I told them to come out anyway."

"Just before the wreck I saw the guy in the towers, a small elevated switching tower at the intersection of the NYC and Nickel Plate lines. He must have seen the wreck coming, because he jumped out of the tower and ran."

"One of the cars hit the tower and smashed it to pieces."

Tudor told newsmen that he was also an eye-witness 4½ years ago when another passenger train derailed at the same spot.

"I pulled a lot of people out that time too," he said.

Then he turned and looked at the crumpled wreckage that still held several bodies and said:

"But it sure wasn't anything like this. It sure wasn't."

There were about 155 passengers aboard—some with destinations as far east as New York City—when the speeding train crumpled into a jagged line of steel in this village of 3,000 about 37 miles southwest of Cleveland.

Leaking diesel fuel caught fire and flashed up to a height of 50 feet for a brief period, the flames mingling with the fog.

Train Clocked At 80 Mph. in 15 Mph. Zone

50 Persons Injured In Passenger Unit Crash in Wellington

WELLINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A 10-car New York Central passenger train roared through a cross-over switch at 80 m.p.h. in mist and fog Sunday night and hurtled off the rails. At least four persons died and more than 50 were hurt.

The eastbound flyer was being switched to the westbound track so it could pass a freight train ahead, and a railroad official said the top speed for this crossover should have been only 15 m.p.h.

"Preliminary investigation indicates that the train was traveling in excess of the maximum permissible speed," said a brief statement from William B. Salter of Indianapolis, general manager of the New York Central's southern district.

"The maximum permissible speed through this (crossover) switch is 15 m.p.h. Full investigation has been started and no further statements will be made until the investigation has been completed."

Earlier Salter had said that speedometer recording tapes in each of the Southwest Limited's three diesels had been read and that two of them indicated the speed of 80 m.p.h. The third tape was questionable.

The train's engineer, H. W. Kirstein, 63, of Cleveland, was injured in the pile-up and was taken to a hospital in Oberlin.

Marion Tudor, a 20-year-old shipping clerk who was a witness to the accident, said he pulled Kirstein from the cab window. He quoted the engineer as saying his brakes and speedometer were not working.

The crash at the switch crossover was close to an intersection with the Nickel Plate Road. But John Dolan, a New York Central attorney, said the St. Louis-to-Cleveland train had left the rails before it hit the intersection.

Korea Solons Due To Probe Head-Shavings

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The South Korean National Assembly decided today to make its own investigation of the recent head-shaving by American soldiers of two Korean prostitutes who entered an Army barracks during the night in search of business.

At the request of Rep. Chung Joon, an independent, the assembly resolved unanimously to have its committees on home affairs, foreign affairs and justice investigate the incident and report back.

Chung said any Korean trespassers caught in U. S. military compounds should be dealt with by Korean authorities, not privately by Americans. He also asked the government to warn Korean prostitutes not to approach military installations.

In an effort to discourage trespassing by prostitutes and reduce venereal disease in his company, Capt. John W. McEnery, 34, of Cheyenne, Wyo., had ordered the shaving of any prostitutes caught in the company area.

The two women, Kim Soon Ae, 30, and Kim Chong Cha, 21, crawled through a hole in a barbed wire fence and were caught waking a soldier in the barracks. They were taken to the company headquarters and were shaved by 1st Sgt. Ora Curnutte, 30, of Chillicothe, Ohio, and Sgt. Harry Saunders, 37, of Kansas City, Mo.

The Army so far has taken no action against the company commander or the two sergeants.

Davis Wins Poll In Louisiana

Pledged by Victor 'Peace and Harmony'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Balladsinger Jimmie Davis, winner of Louisiana's Democratic runoff for governor, today sought to return this political topsy-turvy state to "peace and harmony."

The 58-year-old former governor said he would create a state sovereignty commission to preserve segregation. Negroes have pressed suits in three parishes (counties) to begin school integration.

"I've been all over the nation," said Davis, "and I'm convinced the Southland is the happiest place in the nation. I think right-thinking white people and right-thinking colored people believe that."

Davis also pledged to keep hands off an independent Legislature and promised he would not build a political machine in this state that remembers the web-like control of Huey P. Long.

A record turnout signaled the end of the Long era. The ticket of lame duck Gov. Earl K. Long, Huey's brother, was soundly whipped in the Dec. 5 primary.

Davis piled up a 71,000 vote lead over New Orleans Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison, seeking to become Louisiana's first Catholic governor since 1884. Davis, a Baptist, got 486,095 votes to Morrison's 414,258 with returns in from all but three of 2,109 precincts. His decisive bulge carried Davis' entire ticket to victory.

Farmer, businessman and teacher, Davis rose in the American political tradition. He was a sharecropper's son, one of 11 children reared in Jackson Parish in north Louisiana's red hill country.

It was the overwhelming Davis note in the predominantly Protestant north and central parish that swept him to victory. Equally important was that Davis ran close behind in Morrison territory — the southern parishes and in New Orleans.

West Milton Hit By Costly Fire

WEST MILTON, Ohio (AP)—An early morning fire swept through four business establishments in three buildings on Miami Street today, causing damage estimated between $100,000 and $150,000.

Fire departments from seven nearby communities helped battle the blaze. Water from a creek was pumped by some of the firemen to supplement the local supply.

Firemen said the blaze may have started in the rear of the M. & M. Tavern. It spread to the Milton Self-Service Quick-Clean Laundromat, McIntee's Plumbing Supply Shop and Brown's Grocery.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

Mexican Bus Mishap Takes Lives of 29

VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) — A sharp "dead-man's curve" on the Laredo - Mexico City highway claimed 29 more victims Sunday. A bus from Reynosa to Tampico ran off the highway while rounding the curve, and crashed in flames at the bottom of a 100-foot ravine. A police doctor said the driver, the bus conductor and 27 passengers including seven children, died in the flames.

eye and on the lip and abrasions of the left knee. He was released.

Patrolman Miller said the Scanlon car crashed off the pavement on Harrison St. near the Tarlton village limit. He said the Scanlons were headed south on Route 159, traveling back to Chillicothe after visiting friends in the Shawnee area.

Miller said the 1958 model car crashed head-on into a tree at the residence of Allen T. Hanes Jr. The auto was demolished, he said.

THE PATROLMAN said the car failed to make a left curve leading out of Tarlton. He said the vehicle careened 87 feet after leaving the highway, coming to a halt when it struck a large tree.

Miller said the woman's pulse and heartbeat appeared very faint seconds before she was placed in the ambulance.

According to Scanlon, his wife was just recovering from injuries suffered in an accident several weeks ago in Ross County.

Mrs. Scanlon is the first traffic victim in Pickaway County for the year. Last year the first fatality was recorded on January 3.

The victim's body was removed to the Defenbaugh Funeral Home and later to the Ware Funeral Home, Chillicothe. No arrangements have been made.

Terhune Declines Congress Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Robert H. Terhune, director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, removed himself today from the Sixth District race for the U.S. House of Representatives.

Accidental Deaths in Ohio Give State Black Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It started Friday night with an automobile collision near Bowling Green that killed four people—a young mother and three of her children.

It ended Sunday night with a passenger train derailment at Wellington that killed at least four people—the train fireman, two conductors for another railroad who were passengers, and an elderly woman.

And in between came enough accidental fatalities in Ohio to help make it one of the blackest weekends in some time. The total in The Associated Press survey from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday was 19 in traffic, 1 by fire, 10 miscellaneous for 30 in all.

While, cars, trucks, and the train carried people to their deaths, even a kayak got into the act. It capsized in the Great Miami River and a youth in it drowned. He was one of two drowning victims, the other a Canton six-year-old who fell through the ice on a farm pond.

Carbon monoxide accounted for a double fatality at Mansfield Sunday night.

Thus went 1960's Ohio fatality toll soaring—with the new year just 10 days old.

The fatalities:

Friday Night

Mrs. Betty Allen, 27, of Merrill (Wood County), and three of her children, Cheryl, 9; Susan, 3, and Don, 1, in an auto collision on a county road near Bowling Green.

Merrill Cook, 61, of Akron, in an auto collision in Akron.

Miss Eileen Thomas, 36, of Marion, of injuries sustained when she was struck by a New York Central passenger train while walking along the tracks near her home.

Saturday

Mrs. Janet Hewitt, 28, of Seville, when her car struck a telephone pole beside Ohio 3, four miles south of Medina.

Mrs. Mary L. Boucherle, 65, of Youngstown, when the car she was driving collided with another auto in Youngstown.

Herman Long, 15, of West Carrollton, drowned when the kayak in which he and two others were riding capsized in the Great Miami River near Dayton.

Jerry Paul Factor, 29, of Zanesville, when his car left new U.S. 40, five miles east of Ohio 13.

Gale Matheny, 29, of Canton, in a collision three miles west of Canton on Ohio 687.

Reports said the train hit a mine and some 200 rebels on the Karen tribes opened fire on the wreckage from jungle positions. Sixteen persons were wounded.

Two Apprehended After Bold Entry

An 18-year-old Route 3, Mt. Sterling boy and a local teenager, accused of taking $335 Saturday from Easterday's service station, Court and Franklin Sts., were held today by Circleville police for further investigation.

William D. Boyse, 18, and the other youth, 13, are charged with taking the money from a safe at 4:30 p. m. officers said the station attendant was outside when the youths made their bold entry.

Police said a key had been left in the safe lock. Sgt. Leroy Hawks and Patrolmen Richard Anderson and Dixie Waters said the youths carried the money sack to a wash room in the station where they took the cash and left the checks. The money bag was found in the wash room.

Sgt. Hawks said Junior Denny, an employee at the station, recognized the two youths. His information led to their identification.

PATROLMAN Anderson spotted the youths in a car at about 9 p. m. on N. Court St. Giving chase, he made a quick apprehension.

Sgt. Hawks said $188 was recovered. According to the youth's story, that was all they obtained from the safe. Hawks said the two will be taken to London Thursday for a voluntary lie-detector test.

Sgt. Hawks said Boyse led drive.

Country Grocer Kills Bandit

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—County store proprietor Stanley Rhodes, about 50, watched the two men come into his store, and leave, in nearby Parisburg.

Later, he saw the pair sitting in a car in front of the store—both masked.

Next, he saw them drive away. He called the sheriff's office.

A few minutes later, the two men walked in, one holding a .22 caliber revolver, and demanded money.

Rhodes was ready. He grabbed his own revolver and fatally shot Thomas R. Mayse, 23, in the head and wounded Tildon R. Watts, 26, in the arm. Both were from Marion.

Accidental Deaths in Ohio Give State Black Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It started Friday night with an automobile collision near Bowling Green that killed four people—a young mother and three of her children.

It ended Sunday night with a passenger train derailment at Wellington that killed at least four people—the train fireman, two conductors for another railroad who were passengers, and an elderly woman.

And in between came enough accidental fatalities in Ohio to help make it one of the blackest weekends in some time. The total in The Associated Press survey from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday was 19 in traffic, 1 by fire, 10 miscellaneous for 30 in all.

While cars, trucks, and the train carried people to their deaths, even a kayak got into the act. It capsized in the Great Miami River and a youth in it drowned. He was one of two drowning victims, the other a Canton six-year-old who fell through the ice on a farm pond.

Carbon monoxide accounted for a double fatality at Mansfield Sunday night.

Thus went 1960's Ohio fatality toll soaring—with the new year just 10 days old.

The fatalities: Friday Night Mrs. Betty Allen, 27, of Merrill (Wood County), and three of her children, Cheryl, 9, Susan, 3, and Don, 1, in an auto collision on a county road near Bowling Green.

Merrill Cook, 61, of Akron, in an auto collision in Akron.

Race by Nixon

May 3 Ohio primary, and would have his delegates back Kennedy, said he felt the Democratic senator should not enter the Ohio primary himself.

"If Kennedy came in, there there would be a lot of little wars . . . that we feel would be best to avoid," he said.

Brushing aside claims by Ohio's Democratic Sen. Frank J. Lausche that voters would not have a choice in the primary, DiSalle said any candidate was free to come in. Lausche, a former five-term governor and one of Ohio's best vote-getters, has threatened to run his own delegate slate.

Turning to the Republicans, DiSalle expressed some doubts about the part Vice President Richard M. Nixon played in ending the steel strike.

"If I were a member of the senate, I think I would want to look into what was promised the steel companies," the governor said.

He added that Labor Secretary James Mitchell played politics by bringing Nixon, who is on the verge of declaring for the GOP presidential nomination, into what DiSalle termed a delicate situation.

Also on the topic of Nixon, DiSalle discounted political prestige that might accrue to Nixon and the Republicans from the summit meetings and President Eisenhower's foreign tour.

Noting the difference between receptions given the President and Nixon on their foreign trips, DiSalle said:

"The vice president wound up in arguments but Eisenhower was greeted by applause . . . I think there is a difference between the two and their approach to the problems."

Five Injured in Two Crashes Investigated During Weekend

Five persons were injured, none seriously, in two auto crashes Saturday on county roads.

The first crash was at 5:08 p. m. at Brown St. and Lincoln Ave. one mile east of Circleville. Cars driven by Roscoe V. Souders, 25, of 360 Brown St., and Howard Frazier Jr., Route 1, Circleville, collided in the intersection.

Souders received first aid at the scene for a lacerated forehead. Frazier was treated at Berger Hospital for contusions of the left arm and elbow.

Mrs. Bonnie Ruth Frazier, 55, a passenger, was treated at the hospital for contusions of the arm and leg and chest injuries.

DEPUTY Sheriffs Dwight Radcliff and Charles Felkey said the Souders car was headed north on Brown St. The Frazier vehicle was traveling west on Lincoln Ave. The officers said Souders was cited for failure to yield the right of way at an unmarked intersection.

Felkey and Radcliff said both autos were heavily damaged.

The second accident was 10:54 p. m. on Route 316 near Darbyville. Deputies Robert Hoover and Radcliff said a car driven by Russell D. Rothe, Route 1, West Jefferson, crashed off the highway and struck a utility pole.

Rothe suffered possible skull injuries and lacerations of the left knee and chest. Judy Davis, 16, Sedalia, a passenger, received rib fractures and possible chest injuries. Both were treated at Berger Hospital.

Deputies said the westbound auto skidded off a curve. The y said traffic was blocked when high tension wires from the damaged utility pole fell on the highway.

The officers said three men from Darbyville rushed to the accident and prevented motorists from crossing the dangerous wires.

Radcliff said the Rothe car was demolished.

passenger coach spun sideways across the rails. It was smashed broadside by the coach which followed it. Most of the dead and seriously injured were removed from these two cars.

Coroner Paul Kopsch of Lorain County said bodies of these persons had been recovered:

Phil J. Lehman, 46, of Cleveland, the fireman on the wrecked train, who died in the locomotive.

George P. Rummel, 55, of Indianapolis, and Kenneth Hale, 42, of Route 1, Rosedale, Ind., both Pennsylvania Railroad conductors en route to a meeting in Cleveland.

Audrey G. Cox, 64, of t. Paris, Ohio, was dead on arrival at Allen Memorial Hospital in Oberlin.

Allen Memorial Hospital at Oberlin, which received most of the injured, said it had treated and released 33 persons and admitted 19. It is 10 miles from the wreck scene.

Other injured were sent to hospitals in Elyria, Norwalk, Medina and Lodi.

A New York Central spokesman said the carrier's investigators had not determined what caused the wreck. He said the Southwest Limited moved at a "pretty good clip" through that area.

The three-unit diesel flipped on its side, and the mail car, which was unoccupied, straddled the tracks crosswise behind it. The combination baggage-coach came to rest sideways against the mail car, and the first coach mashed into its middle.

Two other coaches and three Pullmans that followed were derailed. Only the last car, a dinern remained on the tracks.

Soviet Rocket Tests Tied to Diplomacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union's newly announced rocket tests in the central Pacific may be the start of a new campaign of missile diplomacy.

It may be aimed to impress Asian nations as well as the United States and European countries.

U.S. officials note that the Moscow warning for ships and aircraft to remain out of the target zone between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15 neatly brackets two important diplomatic events:

1. The formal signing of a new 10-year security treaty between the United States and Japan scheduled to take place at the White House on Jan. 19, Japan's Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi and President Eisenhower will be present.

2. The 10-day visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to neutral Indonesia, due to begin in mid-February.

Any prestige gathered by spectacular space accomplishments would come, too, just ahead of a series of European diplomatic negotiations leading up to next May's four-power summit conference and Eisenhower's visit to the Soviet Union in June.

Another less immediate objective may be a Soviet desire to boost Communist prestige in Asia following the great success of Eisenhower's recent visit to South Asia.

Missing Heiress, Chauffeur Traced Across Sea to Paris

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP)—Missing heiress Gamble Benedict today was traced to Paris after a freighter trip from New York with a married, Romanian-born chauffeur.

New York police said the 18-year-old New York debutante sailed from New York Dec. 31 aboard the freighter Edga with Andre Porumbeanu, 35, onetime chauffeur-buttler for Mrs. Arde Bulova, widow of the watch king. The freighter arrived in Antwerp Saturday. Both Miss Benedict and Porumbeanu remained aboard Saturday night, sources in Antwerp said.

Sunday afternoon Miss Benedict boarded an express train which got to Paris late in the afternoon.

It could not be learned immediately whether she remained in the French capital. When they sailed from New York, she had listed Naples as her destination and Porumbeanu gave Paris as his, New York authorities said.

Police said they are closing the case since they are satisfied Miss Benedict voluntarily left her fashionable upper East Side home Dec. 27 after a society party. Friends had reported seeing her several times in New York since then.

Her grandmother, Katherine Geddes Benedict, who is under a physician's care, reported the girl missing. Friends said Mrs. Benedict, widow of Henry Harper Benedict, former president of the Remington Typewriter Co., had objected to the girl's seeing Porumbeanu, whom she met last summer at Mrs. Bulova's Long Island home.

A friend of Porumbeanu, Miron Butariu, said Porumbeanu is the son of a Romanian colonel and is separated from his wife, who lives here. They have a daughter, Butariu said. Porumbeanu was last seen Dec. 30 when he checked out of a rooming house near Miss Benedict's home and told his landlady he was leaving to marry the girl.

Butariu said Porumbeanu enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and, after an honorable discharge, attended Columbia University on the GI bill. Later he held a job with the Standard Oil Co. Last summer Mrs. Bulova hired him as chauffeur-buttler at her Southampton home.

Butariu, who works for the Assembly of Captive European Nations, said Porumbeanu told him: "I'm in love with a society girl."

Tight Money Affects Banks In Four Ways

Finding Cash To Lend Is More Difficult; Interest May Climb

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Tight money—which seems likely to be around for awhile—is affecting the nation's banks in four ways:

1. It is making it harder for them to find money to lend at a time when the steel settlement seems sure to set off a new boom that should bring a bigger demand for loans to business.

2. It is causing them to raise some interest rates again and to talk at least of the need to hike others.

3. It is fattening their profits from the loans they are making at higher interest charges.

4. It is leading them to seek new lendable funds by paying their stockholders in part by stock dividends to conserve cash, by taking a loss on the sale of older securities now priced far below par, and by luring new depositors by offering better returns on savings.

Bankers see little chance that the demand for loans will ease, except for the seasonal flow back to the banks of funds in January and February when preholiday loans are repaid. Instead they expect the demand to expand because of the desire of industry to build up stocks and to step up activities now that steel labor peace is assured.

They see little chance that the Federal Reserve will relax its tight money policy. In fact, many bankers look for another hike in the discount rate as soon as upcoming Treasury financing and the seasonal factor are out of the way.

The hope of ease that some see in President Eisenhower's forecast of a four-billion-dollar Treasury surplus in the fiscal year starting next July is widely discounted in banking circles.

First, the surplus would be some time off.

Second, there are three big ifs attached to it: If Congress doesn't raise its spending sights; if Congress doesn't lift part of the tax burden; if business booms for a year or more so that Treasury collections from corporate and individual income taxes swell its take to $4 billion dollars.

Any one of these, or combination of them, could shrink the hoped for surplus, and perhaps wipe it out.

Bankers also note that the new budget would call for higher spending than the last—so that a surplus would depend entirely on a big gain in revenue.

Political Football Taking Odd Bound In Buckeye State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's political football is taking some funny bounces.

Republicans expect to elect a solid national convention delegation pledged to their only likely, but as yet undeclared, candidate for president.

Democrats face a fight to keep most of their delegates pledged to a favorite son who is committed to the announced front-runner for nomination.

The GOP state committee decided delegates would stand for election in the May 3 primary election pledged to Vice President Richard M. Nixon for president.

Nixon is expected to make his presidential announcement in time for his slate of Buckeye delegate candidates to file by the Feb. 3 deadline.

Second choice of the Ohio GOP delegation to the Chicago convention is James A. Rhodes, former Columbus mayor, who seeks reelection as state auditor.

Ohio law requires delegate candidates to name their first and second presidential choices and receive their written consent to get on the ballot.

Democrats came up with a double play in the hope of avoiding a fight for delegates that threatens to explode despite the maneuvering.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle came out as the favorite son for a slate of delegates pledged to all-out support of Sen. John F. Kennedy for president.

DiSalle agreed to stick with the Massachusetts senator until he won nomination or withdrew at the party convention in Los Angeles next summer.

Kennedy hailed the move as the biggest boost yet for his announced candidacy and scrapped plans to seek Ohio delegates pledged to himself.

In that way DiSalle aimed to avoid a possible delegate defeat and keep control of the Ohio slate in event Kennedy failed to get the nomination.

The governor brushed aside talk of becoming Kennedy's running-

Labor Leader Warns of Voter Revolt

WASHINGTON (AP)—AFL-CIO President George Meany said today the administration and Congress can expect a voters' revolt in November unless the "Washington posture of sit-down and do-nothing" is changed.

The American people, Meany said, "do not see any point or profit in the collapse of the functions of our government, whether the breakdown takes place in the middle of the road or on either side."

Meany's remarks were prepared for the opening of a three-day rally of 600 AFL-CIO union officers called to drum up support for a series of union-wanted measures in Congress.

He said the country has been drifting backward, instead of forging ahead.

"Not only in outer space but right here on solid earth," he said, "the United States faces an enormous and growing deficit—in national defense, in education, in housing, urban renewal, industrial expansion, social security, modern roads, airports and community facilities."

The largest county in the United States is San Bernardino, Calif., with an area of more than 20,000 square miles. It is larger than eight states.

Recreation Lands Needed

As information begins to filter through from investigations by the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission into the likes and needs of the American public, a suspicion begins to develop that in the eventual proposals submitted to Congress by the body, there will be heavy overtones favorable to condemnation of private land for public recreation sites.

One member of the 15-man group, Francis W. Sargent, has suggested that the only way for a adequate recreational areas to be set aside for future generations is for the federal government to assume ownership of more desirable sites. In its report, due in 1961, the commission is expected to make a strong plea for public ownership of recreational lands, in opposition to private development.

The commission composed of seven private citizens and eight members of Congress—is attempting to ascertain the outdoor recreation trend of the nation now, what will it be like by the years 1976 and 2000, and what resources are available and will be available to accommodate the outdoorsmen. Difficult as it is to predict what people will be doing with their spare time a half century from now, the survey is complicated by the dwindling areas of desirable land.

Satisfactory recreation land is also ideal for habitation, and there is little such acreage not now in use or under private title. In vying for this land, the recreation commission has to combat the demands of expanding population, needed space for industrial expansion and programs of government involving public ownership of areas for housing projects, slum clearance, highway programs and public parks.

Most important of all, it must show overwhelming need for government intervention in the playtime activities of citizens, which conflicts with the American system of private ownership of property. The task is not made easier by the recent which shows that 90 per cent of commercial forests are open to recreation by the public.

Chiselers Rob the Taxpayer

Predictions made a quarter century ago that social security would lessen the amounts paid to the needy aged by the government are not coming true, it is reported by Tax Foundation Inc., a private research group operating in the area of tax policy.

The number of old age assistance recipients has dropped by nearly 400,000 since the 1950 peak. But annual assistance payments by federal, state and local governments have increased by $450 million in the decade between fiscal 1950 and fiscal 1960. They total more than $1.7 billion, which is $11 per capita for the entire U. S. population.

The increasing impact of social security has the effect of lessening the number receiving assistance outside that program. But the payments per client continue to rise.

Tax Foundation calls for a survey and a better accounting. Obviously those receiving old age assistance who are able to care for themselves or have families who can care for them should be removed from the rolls.

All local governments have a stake in the assistance program. Dollar sums are rising constantly, not only because of the elderly but because of dependent children and other unfortunates. Where need is actual, they should be cared for. But it is a needless drain on taxpayers if the chiselers are not rooted out.

Woodland Cinderella Defrocked

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — There's something missing in our house. Two corners of our living room look awfully empty. They are where our Christmas trees stood. Perhaps it is now a little too late or far too early to talk about Christmas. Most people get a bit surfeited with the holiday season, the hysteria of giving and receiving, the repetition of the carols and expressions of good cheer, the sometimes forced atmosphere of gaiety.

They are a bit glad to say goodbye to it all, and to get down to the bedrock effort and resumption of routine that comes with the New Year.

But somehow Christmas never hits me harder than when the time comes to take down the tree. There is something so irretrievably final about defrocking this woodland Cinderella, center for so brief a time of hearth and heart, and tossing her into the nearest ashcan. It makes me feel almost like a traitor to my better nature. It seems like an act of disloyalty. This year for the first time we had two Christmas trees, and both were perfect. One was a tall, elegantly spare spruce. The other was of shimmering aluminum.

The evergreen tree was for ourselves and our 6-year-old daughter

Tracy Ann. You can't beat a real tree for people. Nothing else quite satisfies them.

The metal tree was for our 15-month-old cat, Lady Dottie. Last year she kept overturning our pine Christmas tree by climbing it and trying to snatch the baubles off its boughs.

We figured this year that if we gave her a tree of her own she would behave better. And, sure enough, she did. She understood very quickly that the aluminum tree was her very own. Our only problem was that she kept gnawing at the metal leaves until I was afraid her ribs would turn silver.

Some of the more important foods which sometimes cause eczema are eggs, wheat and milk. Some children are so allergic to eggs that merely touching the shell will cause an attack of eczema or asthma. Frying an egg may do the same. And using a baking powder containing eggs can initiate a siege without anyone in the household realizing the real source of the annoying allergy trouble.

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

This is a bad time of the year for eczema. Or maybe I should say it is a good time for eczema and a bad time for you.

Eczema is usually aggravated by marked temperature changes such as those that occur every time we go inside or outside during winter weather.

The dry, heated air of our homes also might irritate the condition. In fact, victims of severe cases probably will find it very helpful to spend the winter in a sunny and dry climate. Most of us, however, can't afford to run away from our troubles.

Attacking the source of the problem, not merely the aggravating factor, is undoubtedly the best way of combating eczema.

While pollens, mold spores, house dust and animal dandruffs are fairly common offenders, most eczema, particularly that affecting children, can be blamed on certain foods.

Some of the more important foods which sometimes cause eczema, since it may contain minute traces of drugs or food substances which the mother has consumed.

The best way to solve the problem, of course, is to determine which foods are the troublemakers and then eliminate them from the diet. Your doctor can help you detect the offenders.

Eventually you may be able to return many of them to the daily diet without causing allergic reactions. I'll tell you more about this in a subsequent column.

If there is only a mild reaction to certain foods, sometimes cooking or heating them for long periods might make them tolerable. Sensitivity to milk, for example, might be eliminated or greatly reduced simply by heating it for sometime in a double boiler. Or maybe the problem can be solved by using condensed milk.

Question and Answer
Mrs. D. R.: My daughter's eyes get very pink and tired-looking at the end of a day.

Do you think she needs glasses?
Answer: From what you describe, it would seem your daughter may have some eye strain, but this could only be determined by your doctor after making the proper examination.

He could then recommend whether she needs glasses.

Savannah, the first steamship to cross the Atlantic Ocean, made the trip in 26 days in 1819. Modern ocean liners cross in less than five days.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the week, its first full week back on the job, when Congress gets down to work, more or less.

Congress went through a brief, self-conscious, hair-shirt period in the 1940s when, astounded by all the committees it had, it cut out some. But it now has more committees and subcommittees than ever, more than 150 of them.

Since they usually try to justify their existence by finding something to do, in hearings of inquiries, they'll get busy. It takes time.

Congress doesn't really get rolling until President Eisenhower submits his spending plans, which he will soon do in his annual budget message.

Pretty nearly everything revolves around this since it is in this message that Eisenhower outlines how much he thinks his programs should cost.

Since the Democratic-run Congress usually has other ideas, this is a good start for a year-long fight.

But last week Eisenhower surprised Congress by tipping his hand in his State of the Union message.

He said his budget would call for spending almost 80 billion dollars, a record for peacetime.

Each year for years now Eisenhower has been submitting record-breaking budgets while calling on Congress to keep down spending.

He did that again this year. But this time he gave Congress a welcome surprise by revealing that while he expects spending—in the fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending June 30, 1961—to hit almost 80 billion dollars, he also expects government revenues to be so high there will be $4,200,000,000 left over.

Telling Congress that was like inviting it to spend the money. Congress may want to use that surplus, in part anyway, to pay for some programs Eisenhower didn't want or to pay more on some programs that he did want.

Whether Congress tries to defy Eisenhower, or just talks about trying it, is something which will unfold as the year unfolds.

If the Democrats run true to last year's form, when Eisenhower made them self-conscious by calling them spenders, they'll do more talking than doing.

And, since Eisenhower seems to have very modest goals himself for 1960, as appeared in his State of the Union message, this should be a very talkative year on all sides, although not necessarily an impressive one.

Since this is also an election year, of which both the Democrats and the Eisenhower administration are much aware, each side no doubt will try to look good at the expense of the other.

This means blaming the other guy for failing to do something which might have means more votes next November if it had been done.

If you feel slightly dizzy after reading this far, just wait till the year's over.

Small Newspaper Payola

By George Sokolsky

It all started because of a belief that there is an inside story, something that is known only to an esoteric few. So newswriters and small newspapers, typewritten, mimeographed and printed began to appear. They arrive from all parts of the country. Some deal with "inside" stories, something that nobody else knows, something that gives anyone an advance notice of events to come. Most of the material can be found in newspapers and magazines.

Some of the small papers deal with stock market information and while they usually avoid giving tips, their greatest value to the reader is that they point the way to an investment. In a bull-market, such information does little harm, except that as the small boys say, everything that goes up must come down. Most times the advice is given by such as do not invest because they have nothing to invest, but then they explain that it is not necessary to be a horse to understand a horse, which is logic of a kind.

Then, of course, there are the hate sheets that fill the mail; hate Jews, hate Roman Catholics, hate Negroes; just hate because there is money in hating. These scurrilous sheets must be very profitable because there are so many of them, all badly written, vilely printed, historically incorrect. Never-the-less they come week after week and some-one pays the postage.

Then there are the blackmail sheets. These unlovely documents are sometimes well-printed, on good paper and even cleverly written but always they praise someone so obviously that after an issue or two it is as clear as day that the subject is being attacked. And always there is a defamation of character, an attack on an individual or on a business, a threat of more to come and an obvious indication that the subject to be discussed might find a way to have the whole thing dropped.

There used to be a fellow in Shanghai, many years ago, who went by the title of Journalist, who walking along the Bund or up Bubbling Well Road would encounter a subject, stop him, tell him a story and swiftly turn on his heel and depart before the subject caught his breath. If the subject did nothing about it, a subsequent issue of a small paper, labelled the "Go - Down," would contain the story with the following introduction: "It has been said, but it has not been denied."

The current breed does not give that much notice. It explodes a tale to ruin a reputation, to break a business or to engage in a war of nerves. Sometimes, the so-called peep-hole columnists, lacking an item or two, will cull something from these small papers and thus a planted rumor about a lady's virtue, a businessman's prosperity, an important person's health, the relations of a husband and a wife will be given credence without investigation and without truth.

The small papers come and go and their subscription fees are comparatively exorbitant. They can afford to charge whatever they choose, but many copies must be sent free because although I subscribe to not a one, I receive many and in the course of a week am astonished at how many there are and how many unsavory persons must earn a living bringing unhappiness to decent folks who are unwilling to defend themselves on the supposition that they will not dignify a louse. On the other hand, there are those who having once had some kind of misfortune, have subsequently lived lives of integrity and usefulness and have no desire to have old coals raked over.

This is an ancient form of journalism and is, in a manner, encouraged by the mores of the times, which seem to recognize the disreputable as celebrities along with the most distinguished. Ladies of the night often appear in the newspaper as celebrities and business news often gives credence to the so-called geniuses who, in time, turn out to be frauds.

The small paper is very much like payola on radio and television. It is a form of journalism which is very old indeed, probably as old as the human race and its particular format is based on the assumption that all the world enjoys seeing a fat and pompous person slip on a banana peel and fall on his face. It caters to primitive sadism.

Northern Ireland claims to operate more tractors per acre than any other province in the world.

Recreation Lands Needed

As information begins to filter through from investigations by the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission into the likes and needs of the American public, a suspicion begins to develop that in the eventual proposals submitted to Congress by the body, there will be heavy overtones favorable to condemnation of private land for public recreation sites.

One member of the 15-man group, Francis W. Sargent, has suggested that the only way for a adequate recreational areas to be set aside for future generations is for the federal government to assume ownership of more desirable sites. In its report, due in 1961, the commission is expected to make a strong plea for public ownership of recreational lands, in opposition to private development.

The commission composed of seven private citizens and eight members of Congress—is attempting to ascertain the outdoor recreation trend of the nation now, what it will be like by the years 1976 and 2000, and what resources are available and will be available to accommodate the outdoorsmen. Difficult as it is to predict what people will be doing with their spare time a half century from now, the survey is complicated by the dwindling areas of desirable land.

Satisfactory recreation land is also ideal for habitation, and there is little such acreage not now in use or under private title. In vying for this land, the recreation commission has to combat the demands of expanding population, needed space for industrial expansion and programs of government involving public ownership of areas for housing projects, slum clearance, highway programs and public parks.

Most important of all, it must show overwhelming need for government intervention in the playtime activities of citizens, which conflicts with the American system of private ownership of property. The task is not made easier by the recent which shows that 90 per cent of commercial forests are open to recreation by the public.

Courtin' Main

While half the population is trying to stamp out heart disease, the other half is going around saying "Drop Dead."

Chiselers Rob the Taxpayer

Predictions made a quarter century ago that social security would lessen the amounts paid to the needy aged by the government are not coming true, it is reported by Tax Foundation Inc., a private research group operating in the area of tax policy.

The number of old age assistance recipients has dropped by nearly 400,000 since the 1950 peak. But annual assistance payments by federal, state and local governments have increased by $450 million in the decade between fiscal 1950 and fiscal 1960. They total more than $1.7 billion, which is $11 per capita for the entire U. S. population.

The increasing impact of social security

ity has the effect of lessening the number receiving assistance outside that program. But the payments per client continue to rise.

Tax Foundation calls for a survey and a better accounting. Obviously those receiving old age assistance who are able to care for themselves or have families who can care for them should be removed from the rolls.

All local governments have a stake in the assistance program. Dollar sums are rising constantly, not only because of the elderly but because of dependent children and other unfortunates. Where need is actual, they should be cared for. But it is a needless drain on taxpayers if the chiselers are not rooted out.

Woodland Cinderella Defrocked

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — There's something missing in our house. Two corners of our living room look awfully empty. They are where our Christmas trees stood. Perhaps it is now a little too late or far too early to talk about Christmas. Most people get a bit surfeited with the holiday season, the hysteria of giving and receiving, the repetition of the carols and expressions of good cheer, the sometimes forced atmosphere of gaiety.

But somehow Christmas never hits me harder than when the time comes to take down the tree. There is something so irrevocably final about defrocking this woodland Cinderella, center for so brief a time of hearth and heart, and tossing her into the nearest ashcan. It makes me feel almost like a traitor to my better nature. It seems like an act of disloyalty. This year for the first time we had two Christmas trees, and both were perfect. One was a tall, elegantly spare spruce. The other was of shimmering aluminum. The evergreen tree was for ourselves and our 6-year-old daughter Tracy Ann. You can't beat a real tree for people. Nothing else quite satisfies them. The metal tree was for our 15-month-old cat, Lady Dottie. Last year she kept overturning our pine Christmas tree by climbing it and trying to snatch the baubles off its boughs. We figured this year that if we gave her a tree of her own she would behave better. And, sure enough, she did. She understood very quickly that the aluminum tree was her very own. Our only problem was that she kept gnawing at the metal leaves until I was afraid her ribs would turn silver.

LAFF-A-DAY

"I wish they'd keep trucks off this street."

Winter Bad for Eczema

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

This is a bad time of the year for eczema. Or maybe I should say it is a good time for eczema and a bad time for you.

Eczema is usually aggravated by marked temperature changes such as those that occur every time we go inside or outside during winter weather.

The dry, heated air of our homes also might irritate the condition. In fact, victims of severe cases probably will find it very helpful to spend the winter in a sunny and dry climate. Most of us, however, can't afford to run away from our troubles.

Attacking the source of the problem, not merely the aggravating factor, is undoubtedly the best way of combating eczema.

While pollens, mold spores, house dust and animal dandruffs are fairly common offenders, most eczema, particularly that affecting children, can be blamed on certain foods.

Some of the more important foods which sometimes cause eczema are eggs, wheat and milk.

Some children are so allergic to eggs that merely touching the shell will cause an attack of eczema or asthma. Frying an egg may do the same. And using a baking powder containing eggs can initiate a siege without anyone in the household realizing the real source of the annoying allergy trouble.

Even breast milk can cause eczema, since it may contain minute traces of drugs or food substances which the mother has consumed.

The best way to solve the problem, of course, is to determine which foods are the troublemakers and then eliminate them from the diet. Your doctor can help you detect the offenders.

Eventually you may be able to return many of them to the daily diet without causing allergic reactions. I'll tell you more about this in a subsequent column.

If there is only a mild reaction to certain foods, sometimes cooking or heating them for long periods might make them tolerable. Sensitivity to milk, for example, might be eliminated or greatly reduced simply by heating it for sometime in a double boiler. Or maybe the problem can be solved by using condensed milk.

Question and Answer

Mrs. D. R.: My daughter's eyes get very pink and tired-looking at the end of a day.

Do you think she needs glasses? Answer: From what you describe, it would seem your daughter may have some eye strain, but this could only be determined by your doctor after making the proper examination. He could then recommend whether she needs glasses.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the week, its first full week back on the job, when Congress gets down to work, more or less.

Congress went through a brief, self-conscious, hairshirt period in the 1940s when, astounded by all the committees it had, it cut out some. But it now has more committees and subcommittees than ever, more than 150 of them.

Since they usually try to justify their existence by finding something to do, in hearings of inquiries, they'll get busy. It takes time.

Congress doesn't really get rolling until President Eisenhower submits his spending plans, which he will soon do in his annual budget message.

Pretty nearly everything revolves around this since it is in this message that Eisenhower outlines how much he thinks his programs should cost.

Since the Democratic-run Congress usually has other ideas, this is a good start for a year-long fight.

But last week Eisenhower surprised Congress by tipping his hand in his State of the Union message.

He said his budget would call for spending almost $60 billion dollars, a record for peacetime.

Each year for years now Eisenhower has been submitting record-breaking budgets while calling on Congress to keep down spending.

He did that again this year. But this time he gave Congress a welcome surprise by revealing that while he expects spending—in the fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending June 30, 1961—to hit almost $60 billion dollars, he also expects government revenues to be so high there will be $4,200,000,000 left over.

Telling Congress that was like inviting it to spend the money. Congress may want to use that surplus, in part anyway, to pay for some programs Eisenhower didn't want or to pay more on some programs that he did want.

Whether Congress tries to defy Eisenhower, or just talks about trying it, is something which will unfold as the year unfolds.

If the Democrats run true to last year's form, when Eisenhower made them self-conscious by calling them spenders, they'll do more talking than doing.

And, since Eisenhower seems to have very modest goals himself for 1960, as appeared in his State of the Union message, this should be a very talkative year on all sides, although not necessarily an impressive one.

Since this is also an election year, of which both the Democrats and the Eisenhower administration are much aware, each side no doubt will try to look good at the expense of the other.

This means blaming the other guy for failing to do something which might have means more votes next November if it had been done. If you feel slightly dizzy after reading this far, just wait till the year's over.

Steel Settlement Shoves Business into High Gear

NEW YORK (AP)—Last week's steel settlement has shoved the nation's business world into high gear.

The agreement burst with surprising swiftness from a stubborn deadlock that had given no indication of a quick break.

The business world, eager to be about the pleasant task of trying to make lavish 1960 predictions come true, had been straining at the leash imposed by the uncertainties of the steel dispute.

Industrial leaders greeted the settlement with almost unanimous expressions of belief that it assured a year of unparalleled prosperity in nearly every field.

Some tempered their enthusiasm with sober warnings that the new steel contract is inflationary and will surely bring higher prices.

The steel industry, itself, said there would be no price increase for the time being.

Some producers of cotton fabrics for automobile interiors responded to the settlement by raising prices for second quarter shipments. A carpet industry leader said the settlement makes higher carpet prices likely for fall.

With worries about steel supplies ended, the automobile industry set out to build 700,000 cars this month—a record. Operations are humming on a double shift, six-day basis. Estimated output

Water Pollution Board To Ask Questions Tuesday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board starts asking questions again Tuesday, and representatives of the city of Youngstown and villages of Middleport, Genoa and Yellow Springs will have to provide the answers.

The board—which has been battling more than eight years to whip the health menace of waterways polluted by raw sewage and industrial wastes—wants to know why the four communities are not moving more rapidly toward building treatment facilities.

If the five board members are not satisfied with the answers, they can deny sewage discharge permits to the communities. This does not mean the communities will have to stop discharging wastes, but it technically puts them in violation of state law.

The stage thus is set for action by the attorney general's office if necessary. This can lead to maximum fines of $500 a day for failure to act.

Yellow Springs has a pumping station and force main which must be replaced or expanded. One solution is a gravity system using a glen owned by Antioch College. But the college wants to avoid disturbing the natural beauty of the glen if possible and has offered land for alterations in the present system.

Youngstown, Middleport and Genoa do not have treatment plants.

Youngstown, which feeds wastes into the Mahoning River, has made most of the preparations for a $5,775,000 plant except sale of bonds. A threatened taxpayer's suit by Joseph Gottlieb of Youngstown has held this up.

Middleport, in Meigs County, needs a plant that State Health Department officials estimate will cost $250,000 to $300,000.

Department officials originally hoped Middleport and neighboring Pomeroy might build one plant to serve both communities, but think this is unlikely now. Both are on the Ohio River. Pomeroy officials have been directed to appear to give a progress report on what is being done there, however.

Genoa, in Ottawa County, has new village officials, some of whom question the plans proposed by the previous administration for treating wastes which go into Packer's Creek.

Besides Pomeroy, officials from New Matamoras in Washington County have been told to report their progress to the board Tuesday.

Through the board's efforts, 70 of the state's 150 cities had adequate sewage treatment works in operation at the end of 1958.

Since then, treatment facilities have been completed in Toledo (an expansion), Cincinnati (a second plant), Hamilton, Zanesville, Wellsville (Columbiana County) and Napoleon, and work is under way in Warren, Mansfield, Chillicothe, Washington Court House, Euclid and Gallipolis.

Ohio Legion Group Seeks Young Ouster

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A dispute between U. S. Sen. Stephen M. Young and the Hamilton County American Legion Council has brought a call to expel Young from the legion.

The Fourth Ohio legion District, which covers 70 southwest Ohio posts, voted here Sunday to ask the state executive committee at Columbus to prefer charges against the senator from Cleveland.

Young and Hamilton County legionnaires quarreled over a speech by the Democratic senator in New York Dec. 15 before the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee.

Neil Wettermann, Americanism chairman of the Hamilton County group, said the council wants Young's membership taken away because of disloyalty, negligence of duties, dishonesty and conduct unbecoming a legion member.

Early in December, the Hamilton County council contended the civil liberties committee was a Communist front and urged the senator to pull out of his scheduled appearance.

Young replied that he would speak where he chose and that the civil liberties group was not listed by the attorney general as subversive.

The appliance industry, equally relieved, forecast sale of 16 million major home appliance units this year, a gain of 275 million dollars, or about 10 per cent, over 1959.

Steel production this week was estimated at 2,707,000 tons, down slightly from last week's 2,726,000 but well above the 2,085,000 a year ago.

Sales on the New York Stock Exchange this week totaled 18,027,086 shares compared with 13,342,808 the previous week and 20,837,601 a year ago. Bond sales amounted to $32,808,000 par value compared with $31,140,000 the previous week and $37,986,500 a year ago.

With all the talk about prices likely to go up, there was some good news for consumers.

Wholesale food prices dipped to the lowest level since Nov. 15, 1949. Dun & Bradstreet's food index stood at $5.70, which is the total amount you would pay at wholesale for one pound each of 31 foods in general use. Last week it was $5.74, a year ago $6.24.

President Ralph W. Burger of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., the country's largest food store chain, said food prices should remain stable in 1960.

People came out of the holidays with money to spend. Retail trade, spurred by traditional early-January clearance sales, posted gains this week of four to eight per cent over a year ago.

Briefly around the business scene: The Justice Department brought 63 antitrust actions in 1959, largest number since 1943.

The Commerce Department estimates construction outlays in 1959 at $54,300,000,000, up from nearly 50 billion in 1958.

The tire industry expects to sell a record 5,800,000 snow tires this year.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Corp. says it will contribute $1 for every $2 employees invest in its stock and guarantee against loss for two years.

Ohio Legion Group Seeks Young Ouster

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A dispute between U. S. Sen. Stephen M. Young and the Hamilton County American Legion Council has brought a call to expel Young from the legion.

The Fourth Ohio legion District, which covers 70 southwest Ohio posts, voted here Sunday to ask the state executive committee at Columbus to prefer charges against the senator from Cleveland.

Young and Hamilton County legionnaires quarreled over a speech by the Democratic senator in New York Dec. 15 before the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee.

Neil Wetterman, Americanism chairman of the Hamilton County group, said the council wants Young's membership taken away because of disloyalty, negligence of duties, dishonesty and conduct unbecoming a legion member.

Early in December, the Hamilton County council contended the civil liberties committee was a Communist front and urged the senator to pull out of his scheduled appearance.

Young replied that he would speak where he chose and that the civil liberties group was not listed by the attorney general as subversive.

Water Pollution Board To Ask Questions Tuesday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board starts asking questions again Tuesday, and representatives of the city of Youngstown and villages of Middleport, Genoa and Yellow Springs will have to provide the answers.

The board—which has been battling more than eight years to whip the health menace of waterways polluted by raw sewage and industrial wastes—wants to know why the four communities are not moving more rapidly toward building treatment facilities.

If the five board members are not satisfied with the answers, they can deny sewage discharge permits to the communities. This does not mean the communities will have to stop discharging wastes, but it technically puts them in violation of state law.

The stage thus is set for action by the attorney general's office if necessary. This can lead to maximum fines of $500 a day for failure to act.

Yellow Springs has a pumping station and force main which must be replaced or expanded. One solution is a gravity system using a gien owned by Antioch College. But the college wants to avoid disturbing the natural beauty of the gien if possible and has offered land for alterations in the present system.

Youngstown, Middleport and Genoa do not have treatment plants.

Youngstown, which feeds wastes into the Mahoning River, has made most of the preparations for a $5,775,000 plant except sale of bonds. A threatened taxpayer's suit by Joseph Gottlieb of Youngstown has held this up.

Middleport, in Meigs County, needs a plant that State Health Department officials estimate will cost $250,000 to $300,000.

Department officials originally hoped Middleport and neighboring Pomeroy might build one plant to serve both communities, but think this is unlikely now. Both are on the Ohio River. Pomeroy officials have been directed to appear to give a progress report on what is being done there, however.

Genoa, in Ottawa County, has new village officials, some of whom question the plans proposed by the previous administration for treating wastes which go into Packer's Creek.

Besides Pomeroy, officials from New Matamoras in Washington County have been told to report their progress to the board Tuesday.

Through the board's efforts, 70 of the state's 150 cities had adequate sewage treatment works in operation at the end of 1958.

Since then, treatment facilities have been completed in Toledo (an expansion), Cincinnati (a second plant), Hamilton, Zanesville, Wellsville (Columbiana County) and Napoleon, and work is under way in Warren, Mansfield, Chillicothe, Washington Court House, Euclid and Gallipolis.

Facts You Should Know Before Selecting Draperies

Today you will find many types of drapery fabrics on the market. New fibers, fabrics and finishes introduce new names, terms and characteristics and it is a challenge to keep informed about them.

Your satisfaction with a drapery fabric depends on: (1) characteristics of the fiber used, (2) quality of the fabric construction, and (3) finishes applied to fabrics.

Fibers commonly used for draperies are: cotton, linen, silk, rayon and acetate. Man-made fibers such as nylon, fiberglass, fortisan and dnyel also are used for drapery fabrics.

For most purposes draperies should clean well, either by washing or dry cleaning; be colorfast; and have minimum shrinkage. They should also resist the weakening effects of sunlight, heat and moisture and impurities in the air. Other desirable characteristics are good draping quality, resistance to burning, and a wide range of pleasing colors and patterns.

This is a series of articles to tell you the characteristics of fibers which go into the making of good quality draperies.

First of all, we want draperies which make our room look attractive. If we want a softening effect we will have many fibers from which to choose. These fibers are: acetate, arnel, dacron, dnyel, fortisan, nylon and rayon. Cotton may either be soft or harsh.

The care of fabrics means a great deal to us when selecting material for draperies. Fibers which should be dry cleaned are:

fortisan, nylon, dnyel and acetate. Although dry cleaning is recommended, acetate, dnyel and nylon may be hand washed.

Hand washing is recommended for rayon although it can be dry cleaned. Arnel may be either machine washed or dry cleaned. It dries quickly and needs little ironing. Cotton is washable and needs ironing. Dacron and dnyel both hold crease when wet, both need little ironing and spots wash off in water. Fiberglass is washable, needs no ironing, and dries rapidly.

The next article in the series will tell the characteristics of fibers as to the resistance of sunlight, abrasion and mildew and the effect of heat and first to the fiber.

SHIRLEY

DEAR ABBY: When our gym teacher ordered us to shower together, many girls didn't like it. I was the spokesman and complained for all of us.

The gym teacher said, "There is nothing wrong with it!" I asked her how come she didn't get in with us? She was saved by the bell. It rang.

GOOD MEMORY

DEAR ABBY: Your letter about showering community-style interested me and my friends because we had that trouble in our gym class. We have no curtains or partitions and all the girls go naked and shower together.

Most of the girls don't like it and neither do their mothers. I suggested that everybody bring an old slip to school and wear it in the shower and if the teacher doesn't like it she can speak to our parents. (P.S. We could carry a plastic bag to take the wet slip home in.)

SLIP WEARERS

DEAR ABBY: While reading your column this morning, we noticed a letter from a young lady complaining of having to shower with the other girls in her gym class. We agree with her, Abby. Everyone should have privacy at a time like that. We're going to take your advice and ask our mothers to complain about the shower situation here also. We sure hope something can be done about it.

Sincerely yours,

Facts You Should Know Before Selecting Draperies

Today you will find many types of drapery fabrics on the market. New fibers, fabrics and finishes introduce new names, terms and characteristics and it is a challenge to keep informed about them.

Your satisfaction with a drapery fabric depends on: (1) characteristics of the fiber used, (2) quality of the fabric construction, and (3) finishes applied to fabrics.

Fibers commonly used for draperies are: cotton, linen, silk, rayon and acetate. Man-made fibers such as nylon, fiberglass, fortisan and dnyel also are used for drapery fabrics.

For most purposes draperies should clean well, either by washing or dry cleaning; be colorfast; and have minimum shrinkage. They should also resist the weakening effects of sunlight, heat and moisture and impurities in the air. Other desirable characteristics are good draping quality, resistance to burning, and a wide range of pleasing colors and patterns.

This is a series of articles to tell you the characteristics of fibers which go into the making of good quality draperies.

First of all, we want draperies which make our room look attractive. If we want a softening effect we will have many fibers from which to choose. These fibers are: acetate, arnel, dacron, dnyel, fortisan, nylon and rayon. Cotton may either be soft or harsh.

The care of fabrics means a great deal to us when selecting material for draperies. Fibers which should be dry cleaned are:

fortisan, nylon, dnyel and acetate. Although dry cleaning is recommended, acetate, dnyel and nylon may be hand washed.

Hand washing is recommended for rayon although it can be dry cleaned. Arnel may be either machine washed or dry cleaned. It dries quickly and needs little ironing. Cotton is washable and needs ironing. Dacron and dnyel both hold crease when wet, both need little ironing and spots wash off in water. Fiberglass is washable, needs no ironing, and dries rapidly.

The next article in the series will tell the characteristics of fibers as to the resistance of sunlight, abrasion and mildew and the effect of heat and fire to the fiber.

Paint Valley Sharpshooters Down Tigers in 71-60 Test

Circleville's cage force ran into a real hornets nest Saturday night at Paint Valley.

The Paint Valley Bees (Bearcats) were so stirred up that they shot a remarkable 51.8 per cent from the field to hand the Tigers a 71-60 defeat.

Circleville fired 40.7 per cent, but it was not good enough to stop the deadeye Ross Countians. Playing "king" for the stinging bees was Stacy Thompson, a slender, spectacled lad who gave CHS defenders fits all evening.

Thompson merely swarmed over the Tigers to drop in 12 of 20 goal attempts and four foul tosses for 28 points. Several of his shots were of the uncanny variety which were earmarked impossible—until they dropped through the hoop.

THE Bearcats displayed their accuracy early, swishing their first five fielders and a foul toss to take a 11-0 lead before Jase Bailey netted a bunny for CHS. This brand of shooting gave a solid indication that the Tigers were going to have their hands full the rest of the evening. And they did.

Hitting from all angles, just as Circleville did Friday night against Wilmington, Paint Valley romped to an 18-8 lead as the first quarter ended. The onslaught continued in the second period as the hosts stabilized a 33-22 halftime margin. Circleville narrowed the count to 33-28 shortly after the second half

Talented Broncs Take 97-73 Verdict over Madison South

Ashville's cage Broncs unleashed a devastating attack to smother visiting Madison South, 97-73, Saturday night.

Coach Russ Gregg's thundering herd had five men scoring 12 points or better. Leading the onslaught was Bob Hoover with 28. Gary Gaines wowed fans with 21. Dick Hollenback garnished 19. Tom Rathburn fired for 14 and Jimmie Gregg came through with 12.

Mark Whitaker of Madison South was leading scorer for the evening with 29. Renick, Daniels and Montgomery chipped in with 10 each.

The Broncs blazed to a 25-12 first quarter lead and didn't let up to hold a 45-24 halftime majority. Madison South roared back with 25 points in the third frame, but Ashville kept pace with 24. The Broncs then exploded for 28 in the last stanza and the visitors rifled for 24.

HOOPER hit his usual jumps and tips, in addition to gaining 22 rebounds and coming through with 13 valuable assists. Gaines played perhaps his best game of the season, hitting on breaks and push shots.

Hollenback hit well from out front and Rathburn displayed accuracy with his favorite jump shot. Gregg tallied three buckets and six foul shots to remain a threat all evening.

The win enabled the Broncs to hold their second place spot in the Darby Valley League behind rugged Greenville's 4-0 record. The Broncs are 3-1 in the loop, followed by Madison South at 2-2.

The highflying Ashville cagers have scheduled Friday night's game with Scioto as Homecoming.

The Broncs reserves dropped a 58-44 test to the undefeated underclassmen of Madison South.

Three Cage Contests on Tap Tuesday

Two Pickaway County and one Fairfield County basketball contests are on tap tomorrow night.

Darby (5-4) tries to get back on the winning tract after dropping two straight when it meets Bloomington (6-6) on the Trojan court.

Jackson (4-7) hosts New Holland. The Wildcats hold an earlier game victory over the hapless Bulldogs, who have won a single contest. Jackson topped New Holland, 56-45.

The third contest pits Stoutsville (9-1) at Carroll. The Indians are tied for first place in the Fairfield County League, but will need all its prowess to stop darkhorse Carroll.

Vic Bubas, former North Carolina State athlete, is coaching the Duke University basketball team.

started, but it didn't take Thompson and company long to quell the upstart Tigers. When the third canto ended the hosts were in possession of a 53-38 advantage.

The Bearcats made life miserable midway in the fourth quarter as they continued their blistering pace to take a 24-point margin, 65-41. The hosts removed their varsity at this point and Circleville quickly took advantage of it.

The Tigers closed the gap to 70-60 before Paint Valley quickly recalled its varsity with about a minute remaining. The damage had been done and the locals were forced to swallow their fourth loss against five wins.

Although the Tigers fired for better than 40 per cent of their shots, they were not as sharp and aggressive as they were Friday against Wilmington. The locals tried every defensive maneuver to stop the avail.

EACH team tried 54 shots from the field. The difference resulted with Paint Valley making 28 and Circleville 22.

Circleville placed three men in double scoring figures, with Larry Hannahs carrying the standard on 20 points. Bob Shadley connected for 14 and Bailey came through with 13 along with his usual ball-hawking tactics.

Thompson had some valuable assistance from Mac Vore who tallied 13 points and Gene Knapp who came through with 11. Thompson was the main villain with his one-hand push shot and driving layups.

The CHS Kittens dropped their reserve contest, 35-27. The score was tied, 13-13 at halftime, but the young Bearcats went on a 14-point binge in the third quarter to take a decisive lead.

Jones paced the Kittens with 11 points, most of them on one-hand nine.

Knapp was high for Paint Valley with 13. Cooper added seven.

Circleville's next contest is scheduled Saturday when Franklin Heights comes here for a South Central Ohio engagement. The Tigers downed the Falcons, 62-41, in their first game of the season.

Mt. Sterling Blasts Scioto

A torrid shooting Mt. Sterling ran into a frigid Scioto on the Buffalo court Saturday night to run up an 82-29 victory.

For the second night in a row the Buffaloes couldn't find their scoring eye, attempting 79 field goals and connecting on 11 for a miserable 13.9 per cent.

The Plains had four men in double figures led by Eldon Peterson's 16 markers from the outside. High men for Scioto were Roy Sanders and Bob Whiteside with eight points apiece.

The Plains raced to an 18-6 first quarter lead and continue to triple the score at halftime, 38-12. It was Scioto's sixth loss against two wins.

Wrestlers Roll To Fourth Win

Circleville's wrestling team, battling from behind, came through in fine style to take a 32-18 victory over Pleasant View here Saturday.

Trailing 18-12, the Tiger grapplers displayed a show of strength to capture pins in all four remaining events. The vital wins gave the locals 20 points to win handily.

The picture looked rather dim as the Panthers of Pleasant View rolled to a 11-0 lead in the first three bouts. Coach John Current then made some changes in strategy and Tigers Gary Agin and Chuck McDowell grabbed quick pins in their classes to narrow the count to 11-10, but the visitors came back with a pin in the next bout.

The picture suddenly changed as John Williams, Dave Huffer, Dan Leonhardt and Rupert Ruid crashed ed their opponents to the mat in the last four bouts.

IN all, the Tigers gained six pins. Phil Wing battled his opponent to a draw in the 147-pound class, each wrestler gaining two points.

McDowell's quick pin was in the 135-pound class and Agin grabbed his in the 129-pound class. Williams roared to victory in the 156-pound class, Huffer in the 167, Leonhardt in the 177 and Rudd in the heavy-weight.

The hustling Tigers now have won four of their five staffs. The only loss was a 24-19 verdict to Kettering Fairmont in the season's opener.

The next match is slated Friday when Columbus Grandview comes here.

Atlanta Tops Good Hope

Atlanta maintained its mastery over Good Hope Saturday night with a low scoring 46-36 victory over the invading Fayette Countians.

The Red Raiders were led by Ronnie Morris' 17 points from his pivot position. Tommy Oyer, the other half of Atlanta's scoring attack, followed with 14 markers.

Reisinger and Hatfield led Good Hope with 12 points each. Good Hope purposely used a slow type offense.

Atlanta hit 24 per cent from the field and Good Hope shot 28 per cent. The Red Raider advantage came on shooting more.

It was Atlanta's fifth win in 13 outings. The Red Raiders made it a double victory with a 32-28 reserve win, for their fifth win against six losses.

Banks Shun Big Money Appearances

CHICAGO (AP)—When a star athlete begins getting awards as "the most this and the most that," it usually means extra cash in various ventures and appearances.

Such, however, is not the case with Ernie Banks, the slugging Chicago Cub shortstop, who became the first National Leaguer to be named most valuable player twice in succession.

"If something comes my way, that's fine," said Banks. "But I like working with kids. They need help and when I appear in behalf of the Little Leagues or something like that, naturally, there's no fee."

Banks has a genuine affection for children. He thinks nothing of hanging around the ball park an hour or so after a game signing autographs.

"You can see a gleam in their eyes when they get an autograph," says Banks, "and to me that's something. Some kids get my autograph a hundred times. I know them by sight. But the minute they get it again, they're off running and jumping with joy. Just like it was the greatest thing that ever happened to them. It's just their way of having fun."

"Kids look up to athletes, I know," continued Banks. "They all have their idols and favorites. Mine was Stan Musial. Although I never saw him play outside of exhibitions in Dallas, I wanted to become just like him. I'm glad I picked Stan because when I got to the majors I really found out what a great guy he is."

Mark Whitaker of Madison South was leading scorer for the evening with 29. Renick, Daniels and Montgomery chipped in with 10 each.

The Broncos blazed to a 25-12 first quarter lead and didn't let up to hold a 45-24 halftime majority. Madison South roared back with 23 points in the third frame, but Ashville kept pace with 24. The Broncos then exploded for 28 in the last stanza and the visitors rifled for 24.

HOOPER hit his usual jumps and tips, in addition to gaining 22 rebounds and coming through with 13 valuable assists. Gaines played perhaps his best game of the season, hitting on breaks and push shots.

Hollenback hit well from out front and Rathburn displayed accuracy with his favorite jump shot. Gregg tallied three buckets and six foul shots to remain a threat all evening.

The win enabled the Broncos to hold their second place spot in the Darby Valley League behind rugged Greenville's 4-0 record. The Broncos are 3-1 in the loop, followed by Madison South at 2-2.

The highflying Ashville cagers have scheduled Friday night's game with Scioto as homecoming.

The Broncos reserves dropped a 28-44 test to the undefeated underclassmen of Madison South.

Contests on

Tap Tuesday

Two Pickaway County and one Fairfield County basketball contests are on tap tomorrow night.

Darby (5-4) tries to get back on the winning tract after dropping two straight when it meets Bloomington (6-6) on the Trojan court.

Jackson (4-7) hosts New Holland. The Wildcats hold an earlier game victory over the hapless Bulldogs, who have won a single contest. Jackson topped New Holland, 56-45.

The third contest pits Stoutsville (9-1) at Carroll. The Indians are tied for first place in the Fairfield County League, but will need all its prowess to stop darkhorse Carroll.

The Plains raced to an 18-6 first quarter lead and continue to triple the score at halftime, 38-12. It was Scioto's sixth loss against two wins.

In Collegiate Cage Storm Signals Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The storm signals are up in college basketball today and by another week the skimpier list of major unbeatens could be nonexistent.

That includes Cincinnati's top-ranking Bearcats as well as the relatively untested Texas A&M, Villanova and LaSalle teams, the trio that joins Oscar Robertson & Co. in making up the current perfect record class.

Cincinnati, which has swept past 12 straight opponents, faces "Challenge Week" within the rough Missouri Valley Conference—meeting St. Louis in Cincinnati Wednesday before moving on to Peoria, Ill., for a Saturday game with Bradley.

The Bearcats whipped Bradley 86-71 (Bradley's only loss in 11 games) in December, but had two big factors going for them then. First, the Bearcats were at home. Second, they had hulking 6-4 Bob Wiesenhahn, their best defensive player and a solid rebounder, available to take some of the pressure off Robertson.

Now Wiesenhahn is out with a foot injury and in his two-game absence so far, Robertson has been held to 27 and 24 points—well under his normal 40-point pace—while he attends more to rebounding and defense.

St. Louis, 12th-ranked nationally with a 10-3 record, has the height and muscle to more than match Cincinnati while Bradley, fourth-ranked nationally and unbeaten in 29 home games, has the scoring power to beat Cincinnati unless the Big O can concentrate on shooting.

South Africans Rap Behavior Of Terrible Tommy Bolt

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—"The worst mannered golfer ever to visit the Union," cried the Johannesburg Express today on shocked tones.

Tommy Bolt, the hot-tempered U.S. Open champion from Crystal River, Fla., was the object of the Express' wrath.

Bolt won a challenge series against South African Gary Player, the British Open champion, a couple of weeks ago.

The Express demanded the South African Golfers Union make an official complaint to the U.S. Professional Golfers Assn. for

Warrior '5' Faces Vital Pro Schedule

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If the Philadelphia Warriors want to grab that National Basketball Assn. eastern division title this is the week to get to work.

The Warriors trail the division leading Boston Celtics by 3½ games after winning twice over the weekend while Boston split a pair. The two clubs have four games scheduled this week, including a pair against each other.

The Celtics have lost 5 of their last 7 games since tying the all-time NBA winning string of 17. To add to their woes, Bill Russell, their great center, came up with a sprained ankle in a 121-111 loss to the St. Louis Hawks Sunday.

Russell will have the ankle X-rayed in Philadelphia today to determine the extent of the injury. He missed only three minutes of Sunday's game after Chuck Share fell on him in a first period scramble for the ball.

The Warriors came on fast in the final quarter to beat New York 116-103 Sunday night. Wilt Chamberlain scored 48 points Saturday to help Philadelphia to a 119-112 victory over Syracuse.

Wilt scored 35 Sunday night, two in an 8-point spurge that broke the Knicks early in the final period. Charley Tyra paced New York with 25 points.

Bob Pettit's 39 points were too much for the Celtics as the western division leaders, trailing only momentarily in the second period, picked up momentum and led by as many as 18 during the second half. Tom Heinsohn led Boston with 29 points. The Celtics beat Detroit 126-103 on Saturday.

The Minneapolis Lakers, only six percentage points behind second place Detroit in the west, swept a weekend series with Cincinnati, winning 121-91 Saturday and 112-106 Sunday.

Sulky Master Egan Dies at Age 80

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Fred F. Egan, 80, a top figure in harness horse training, died Saturday at his home in Orlando.

Egan twice won the Hambletonian—in 1940 behind Spencer Scott and in 1949 behind Miss Tilly. He also developed Emily's Pride, 1958 winner of the Hambletonian and one of the top money winners in harness racing history.

Egan won nearly every top stake race. He had been semi-retired for several years but was handling a small stable for Castle Farm of Lexington, Ky., at his death.

Texas A&M (10-0), Villanova (9-0) and LaSalle (8-0) also have immediate problems.

The Aggies meet SMU (8-4) Tuesday, a club they edged 38-35 in the Southwest Conference Christmas Tournament final, and then go against Texas (8-3) on Friday. If Villanova survives its game with Temple (9-3) Wednesday, there's the rugged matter at Morgantown, W.Va., Saturday against West Virginia, 12-8, the nation's third-ranked team, and unbeaten on its home floor in 34 consecutive games. LaSalle, which squeezed by Duquesne 68-63 Saturday, has a road test tonight at Morehead State (Ky.).

In some of tonight's key games, Tulane, along with Georgia Tech the surprise Southeastern Conference leader, gets its big test at Kentucky while Georgia Tech (10-1) an sixth-ranked nationally plays twice—beaten Mississippi; ninth-ranked Illinois plays at Purdue and Iowa home to Michigan State in Big 10 features; and West Virginia tries for its 37th straight Southern Conference victory against William & Mary at home.

What's in store for the elite was indicated last Saturday when fifth-ranked Utah and eighth-ranked Wake Forest were beaten, and California, West Virginia, Bradley, Ohio State and Southern California—other members of the top 10—had to come from behind to win. Cincinnati ran its two-season win streak to 13 with an 83-50 romp over Tulsa, Illinois, downed Minnesota 90-82, and Georgia Tech had an easy time with Mississippi State 82-60.

Bolt's "appalling behavior." The Express objected mostly to Bolt's salty language. It claimed he cursed one official who offered him a cool drink.

In another match, complained the Express, an official took a look at Bolt's lie in the rough and Tommy yelled to Player: "Say, Gary, call this imbecile off."

Continued the Express: "It is safe to say that at each and every course on which Bolt played, he insulted at least one official. Frequently Player had to apologize for his manners. "Never on one sports field has one man made so many enemies in so short a time."

But Tommy had some supporters. Sid Brewer, president of the South African Professional Golfers Union, shrugged it off.

"Tommy gave color to the game here even if he splashed it on rather heavily at times," he observed.

Bobby Locke, another South African ace and four times holder of the British Open, told the Sunday Times that Player lost the series because of Bolt's "psychological treatment."

"When you play many of the Yanks, you've got to switch off your hearing aid," Locke remarked dryly.

At the moment, Bolt is on an indefinite probation by the U.S. PGA for his frequent outbursts. However, of late, he has been on his best behavior and has refrained from his old habits of tossing clubs and arguing with spectators.

UNCOURTED—Mrs. Gudrun Jaeger looks glum in Cleveland after traveling all the way from Germany to wed a pen pal bridegroom, Henry Balcerzak, 87, only to find he has a wife and two children.

Mrs. Jaeger, whose German flyer husband was killed in Russia in 1942, said, "I know all Americans aren't bad." But immigration and court authorities are looking into it and how bad one might be.

Doctor Aids Team

Abandon Slump

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — St. Peter's basketball Coach Don Kennedy thinks he has just what the doctor ordered for his slumping team — a doctor.

With several key players ailing and after several defeats recently Kennedy decided to hire a chiropractor to tune up his players.

Dr. Ernest Greiger of Jersey City, the chiropractor, promised Kennedy his treatments would make the players better coordinated, sharpen their shooting and add 15 points to the team scoring average.

Last Friday Dr. Greiger X-rayed the team and then manipulated their spines.

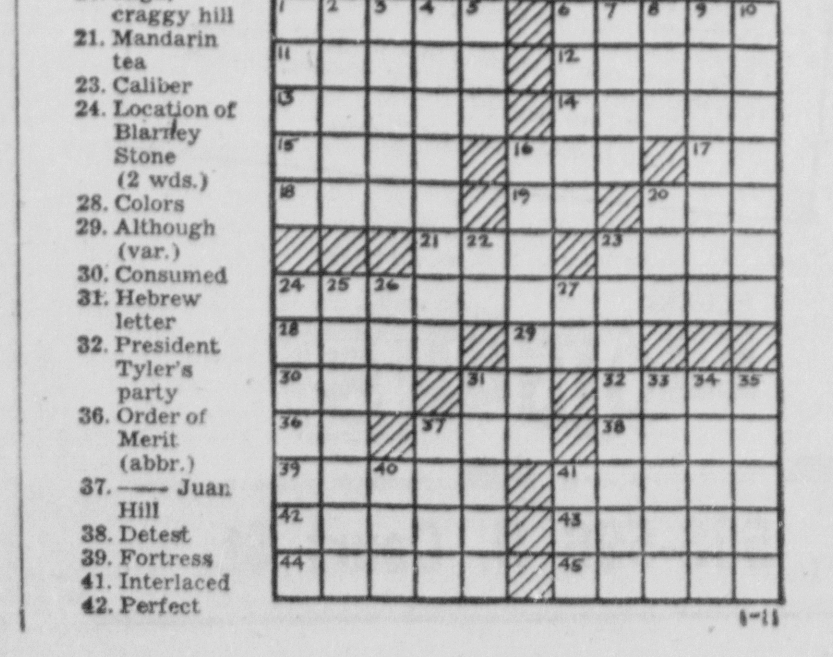

Saturday night St. Peter's tried out its cure. It worked. The Peacocks defeated American University 79-68 at the Jersey City Armory.
